Dear Dr. Harrison:

Pursuant to Rules X and XI of the U.S. House of Representatives, the Committee continues to examine implementation of the 340B Drug Pricing Program. As part of this oversight, the Committee is seeking information from your organization, Primary Children's Hospital, because of its participation in this important program.

Established by Congress in 1992, the 340B Drug Pricing Program mandates that pharmaceutical manufacturers provide outpatient drugs to eligible health care organizations (referred to as “covered entities”) at discounted prices in order to have their drugs covered by Medicaid. The discounts are substantial—participating covered entities report savings between 25 to 50 percent of the average wholesale price for covered outpatient drugs.¹ Indeed, the federal agency responsible for managing and overseeing the program, the Health Services and Resources Administration (HRSA), estimated that covered entities saved a collective $6 billion in 2015 by participating in the program.² Moreover, covered entities can purchase 340B drugs for all eligible patients regardless of the patient’s income or insurance status and therefore can generate revenue if the reimbursement for the drug exceeds the reduced price the hospital paid for the 340B drug.³

While there is not an officially-stated purpose for the program in federal statute, HRSA has stated that Congress intended for covered entities to use the savings generated from the program to help the nation's most vulnerable patients gain better access to health care and "stretch scarce federal resources as far as possible, reaching more eligible patients and providing more comprehensive services."⁴ Covered entities include certain Ryan White clinics and State AIDS Drug Assistance Programs, children's hospitals, Medicare/Medicaid Disproportionate Share Hospitals, and other safety net providers as defined in the Public Health Services Act.⁵ Congress did not, however, restrict how covered entities use 340B program savings, nor did Congress provide HRSA with any authority to oversee how covered entities use program savings. In fact, during the Committee's July 2017 hearing examining HRSA's oversight of the program, HRSA testified that "the statute is silent regarding how covered entities have to use their savings" and "HRSA doesn't have authority to require what these entities are doing with their savings."⁶

Consequently, Congress has only had limited visibility into how covered entities use program savings. A recent survey conducted by an association of hospitals participating in the program—340B Health⁷—indicates that many covered entities use program savings in ways that include but are not limited to, using savings to increase services to uninsured or underinsured patients, improve pharmacy services by funding patient assistance programs and patient counseling, and help fund community service initiatives.⁸ Furthermore, the survey revealed that some hospitals consider program savings to be essential to the continued operation of the hospital.⁹ According to the President and Chief Executive Officer of 340B Health, the program "gives hospitals the ability to address the most critical treatment needs for their community and customize programs that have the greatest potential to reach the most vulnerable patients."¹⁰

Over the years, however, the program has grown substantially and reports indicate that some hospitals may be abusing the program and may be failing to pass program savings on to the intended beneficiaries.¹¹ For example, a 2014 Health Affairs study found that some hospitals use the program to increase profits rather than helping extend services to low-income populations.¹² Additionally, a 2014 study by the Office of Inspector General at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services found that not all covered entities ensure that uninsured patients benefit from the discounted 340B prices at their contract pharmacies.¹³ During the Committee's recent hearing, HRSA testified that HRSA does not know whether 340B entities pass program savings on to patients who need a reduction in the price of their medicine because the statute is silent and hospitals are not required under the law to pass the savings on to patients.¹⁴

Therefore, to assist the Committee in its oversight of the 340B Drug Pricing Program and help the Committee better understand the different ways in which covered entities use program savings, please provide Committee staff with a briefing no later than September 22, 2017. Please also provide the following information by September 22, 2017:

1. In a chart or similar format, please list each of the following items for 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, and 2016:
 - a. The number of 340B drugs your organization, and all associated sites and off-site outpatient facilities registered as child sites, purchased for that year. Please provide a breakdown of the number of these drugs that were purchased by the covered entity's child sites and the number directly purchased by the covered entity;
 - b. The percentage of 340B drugs purchased and dispensed that fall into each of the following categories:
 - i. Analgesics
 - ii. Antidepressants
 - iii. Oncology treatment drugs
 - iv. Antidiabetic agents
 - v. Antihyperlipidemic agents
 - c. The number of 340B drugs your organization purchased that were dispensed to insured patients, including:
 - i. Medicare beneficiaries
 - ii. Medicaid beneficiaries
 - iii. Commercially-insured individuals;
 - d. The number of 340B drugs your organization purchased that were dispensed to uninsured patients;

- e. The amount of savings (in dollars), as compared to the GPO price for the same drug, that your organization generated through participation in the 340B Drug Pricing Program; and
 - f. The amount of charity care (in dollars) that your organization provided; and
 - g. The number of patients that received charity care from your organization.
2. How does your organization calculate the amount of savings it generates through participation in the 340B Drug Pricing program? How does your organization track the amount of money your organization receives when an insured patients' insurance reimbursement exceeds the 340B price paid for the drug?
3. How does your organization use program savings to care for vulnerable populations? Are program savings used for any other purposes?
- a. Does your organization provide any additional charity care to uninsured and underinsured patients with funds derived from sources other than the 340B Drug Pricing Program? If so, please elaborate.
 - b. What percentage of total health care services provided by your organization is charity care?
4. Does your organization have any policies to help ensure that uninsured and underinsured patients directly benefit from the program by receiving discounts on 340B drugs? If so, please elaborate.
5. How many child-sites does your organization have registered to participate in the 340B Drug Pricing Program? Please provide a list of all child-sites, including the location of the child-site and the date it began participating in the program.
6. How many pharmacies has your organization contracted with to dispense drugs purchased through the 340B Drug Pricing Program on your behalf?
- a. Do your contracts with these pharmacies require that program savings be passed on to the intended beneficiaries, including requiring that uninsured or underinsured patients receive discounts on 340B drugs?
 - b. Does your organization share any program savings with these contract pharmacies? If so, please elaborate.

Thank you for your prompt attention to this matter. If you have any questions regarding this request, please contact Brighton Haslett, Brittany Havens, or Natalie Turner with the Majority Committee staff at (202) 225-2927.

Sincerely,

Greg Walden
